HBCU Library Alliance Launches Redesigned Website

The HBCU Library Alliance proudly announces the launch of its redesigned website, www.hbculibraries.org, a comprehensive site that encompasses all of the libraries in the HBCU community and connects HBCU and other librarians with the orientation, goals, and programs of the HBCU Library Alliance.

HBCU libraries serve as unique and indispensable gatekeepers for history, culture, and the African-American experience. The HBCU Library Alliance is a consortium that supports the collaboration of information professionals dedicated to providing leadership and resources designed to strengthen Historically Black Colleges and Universities and their constituents.

Working together, the Alliance members aim to lead in the preservation, access, and dissemination of information that is relevant to the history and mission of Historically Black Colleges and Universities. This newly redesigned site is the latest vehicle for informing and educating others about the role and resources of HBCU libraries.

On the launch of the new website, Loretta Parham, Library Director/CEO, Robert W. Woodruff Library of the Atlanta University Center in Georgia and Chair of the HBCU Library Alliance, declared that "This site represents the flowering of our organization and our ability to reach out with our insight, our goals, and the fruit of our experience to date to the entire HBCU community. We want people to see what we have done and what we can do and we welcome their feedback."

HBCULibraries.org features

- Links to the websites of all HBCU libraries
- Information about the Leadership Program, leadership training funded by the Andrew W. Mellon Foundation
- Information on the Digital Project, a joint venture with the Cornell University Library and supported by the Andrew W. Mellon Foundation
- The HBCU Library Alliance Blog, where the public is invited to join the discussion about issues affecting HBCU libraries
- And much more.

Created by the deans and directors of the HBCU libraries in 2002, the HBCU Library Alliance seeks to ensure excellence in those libraries through the development, coordination, and promotion of programs and activities to enhance members' collections and services.
